

EFFECTIVE DATE: FALL 2012

PROGRAM REVISION REQUEST: M.S. in Education in Educational Leadership

Reason for the Request:

The department of Educational Leadership (EDL) and its four partner departments - Counseling and Student Development (CSD); Early Childhood, Elementary and Middle-Level Education (ELE); Secondary Education & Foundations (EDF); and Special Education (SPE) from the College of Education and Professional Studies, are presenting these program and course changes in response to recent Illinois Board of High Education and Illinois State Board of Education rule and regulation changes related to all Illinois Principal Preparation Programs. These new requirements were finalized in the fall of 2011 and will become effective in the fall of 2012. After receiving approval for these changes from the required college, graduate school and university authorities, these programmatic changes will be presented to the IBHE for approval in May 2012.

The new state requirements have been vetted through an ongoing collaborative internal and external improvement process that has included the following entities in addition to the CEPS departments previously listed: Charleston Community Unit #1, Mattoon Community Unit #2, and Oakland Community Unit School District #5. In addition, we have sought, considered and incorporated input from various public school representatives that comprise our advisory committees. In addition, we have analyzed various internal and external data sources to inform decision-making. These include data collected from our annual Graduate School Student Survey and fifteen measures of student achievement that are collected each semester as part of our departmental improvement processes. Finally, members of the EDL faculty and CEPS administration have been a part of IBHE-ISBE and the original State Action for Education Leadership Project (SAELP) committees related to principal preparation reform efforts.

Overview of the Program:

The Master's degree program will be similar to the current program in that all students will take 33 hours in order to earn the Master's in Education in Educational Leadership degree. However, in order to earn the Principal's Endorsement, successful candidates will be required to take an additional nine hours of coursework for a total of 42. The increase in total credit hours from the prior principal endorsement program (36-37) is related in part to the addition of two additional classes and an expanded Practicum (internship) experience. The additional courses were designed by the ELE and SPE departments respectively in collaboration with EDL. Specifically, the ELE course will provide students with learning experiences related to best practices especially as it relates to math and reading pedagogy. The new SPE course will address the curricular and behavioral needs of learners with exceptionalities and English Language Learners (ELL). All classes in the program will now be three credit hours. In addition, the department will be expanding its Master's internship program to a year-long experience.

Students who seek the Master's in Education in Educational Leadership will be required to submit and present an Action Research Project prior to graduation. This project will begin in EDL 5900 Introduction to Research, and periodic progress checks will be required throughout the remainder of the program. EDL 5900 must be taken either in the first or second semester of the program.

For those seeking admission to the Principal Endorsement Program, students will be required to submit a portfolio of their prior Master's work, recommendations, and a writing sample. In addition, students will be required to take the Ventures Disposition Profiler and successfully complete an interview process with faculty and current administrators. In addition, student must have passed the basic skills test.

All courses will emphasize five general themes that hold great importance to successful school leadership: Visioning, Social Justice, Data Informed Decision Making, and Globalization and Innovation.

As presented, the Master's program exceeds the Graduate School credit hour requirement of 32. The combination of the Master's and Principal Endorsement Program course work is designed to meet the new requirements issued by IBHE and ISBE. The experiences and curricula of both programs will provide students with the statutorily prescribed coursework and external experiences to qualify for the Principal Endorsement.
